- NBN Battery Backup Unit

Installation of this NBN equipment is covered by the Australian government free of charge. A once off activation fee of $55 is applicable. If you enter a 24 month agreement with TeleMates the Activation fee will be Free.

Internal Cabling & Equipment

The NBN network is responsible for service up until the Network Termination Unit installed inside your premises. Connection of internal sockets within your home/business beyond the Network Termination Unit will need to be organised with a Private Electrician at your own expense. If you already have telephone sockets at your premises your Private Electrician will need to reconnect these sockets to the Network Termination Unit. A special "NBN Internal Cable Guide" has been developed to further explain this change.

The Battery Backup Unit will continue to supply power to the Network Termination Unit for up to 2-3 hours in the event of a loss of power to your premises. Your access to telephone services to make/receive calls will continue as normal during a power outage whilst the Battery Backup Unit has power. If the battery backup unit runs out of backup power you will not be able to make/receive calls or access Emergency telephone services.

Telephone Equipment

The TeleMates NBN Voice Only service will work with most standard telephone equipment. Some older equipment may not be supported including rotary telephone handsets, back to base alarm systems, personal response systems (medical alert/emergency call systems) and some fax machines may not work. Please check with the manufacturer/supplier if your device is compatible with the UNI-V port on the NBN Network Termination Unit.
